Project Priorities

No Kid Hungry-Missouri prioritizes those grant applications from the lowest income areas of the state that are most likely to result in:

- a measurable, sustainable increase in meals served to low-income children
- increased food security for vulnerable communities in Missouri
- new partnerships between community and public organizations that serve low-income communities
- Summer food service in both July and August

This project prioritizes applications from organizations that have not been awarded No Kid Hungry Missouri grants in the past. Past awardees will be considered, however.

As part of the application, applicants will be asked for a list of proposed items to purchase. Please note that we may approve all, some or none of the items requested.

In the past three years we have funded over 100 applications for the summer grant program. Here are examples of items funded and not funded. Please note, this is not an exhaustive list of items, and your application may request other items.

Background and History

Since 2017, No Kid Hungry Missouri has financially supported schools and summer camps that offer children nutritious meals during a critical time of the year: summer vacation. With more than 800,000 Missourians living with food insecurity, child hunger is a year-round concern. However, children without access to school meals are even more at risk -- especially during the late summer months when summer-school sessions have often ended and fall semester has not yet begun.

No Kid Hungry Missouri supports sustainable efforts to feed children in the long-term; a key goal is to increase awareness and access to free meals in vulnerable communities in the state.

Applicants are encouraged to plan ways to increase the meals served in their communities. Partnerships with community organizations, including libraries, parks, nonprofit organizations like YMCAs and Boys/Girls Clubs and schools, can increase a program's impact.

Participation in USDA child-nutrition programs

All public schools are eligible for this grant. Other organizations serving children are also eligible, provided they participate in the Summer Food Service Program (SFSP), administered by the Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services. New applications from organizations not yet participating in the SFSP must be participants before May 1, 2024, to be eligible for funding this year.

Participation can mean becoming an SFSP sponsor organization or becoming a site working with an existing SFSP sponsor.
